online training

Occupational health and safety affects every workplace and is a shared responsibility between employers and employees. Ensuring a safe environment is both a legal and moral obligation, requiring proper control of risks to protect workers and others affected by workplace activities. This e-learning course equips managers and supervisors with the essential knowledge to identify hazards, implement effective controls and manage health and safety responsibilities. It also includes an optional mock assessment for exam revision and provides the knowledge learners need to progress towards achieving a recognised qualification in health and safety

Areas covered

- Introduction to health and safety
- Legal aspects of health and safety
- Accidents
- Management of health and safety
- Risk assessment
- Hazardous substances
- The workplace
- Using equipment safely
- Fire safety
- Health at work
- Ergonomics, manual handling and display screen equipment

Who is it aimed at?

Supervisors or managers with health and safety duties or anyone looking to go on to achieve a level 3 health and safety qualification. The course may also be used as part of the on-programme element of the new apprenticeship standards, supporting the knowledge, skills and behaviours apprentices need to effectively integrate into the workplace.
